HERE'S WHAT ALUMNI HAVE TO SAY ABOUT FIRST-YEAR ASP

“I would definitely recommend the First-Year Academic Success Program to anyone entering NYLS, no matter how ready for law school you think you are. Law School is a completely unique experience, which takes some adjusting, and the Weekly Skills Sessions helped me focus on how to read, write, and analyze in a new way. Personally, I hadn’t been in school for a few years, so the weekly one-on-one attention was key in my readjusting to being back in school. You get limited feedback from your regular classes, so the Weekly Skills Sessions give you the chance to form an ongoing relationship with someone who can help you adapt to the law school environment. I did well in the first year and owe a lot of that success to my Teaching Fellow.”

Caleb Vesey ’13

“My Teaching Fellow was great. Since she thrived in her first year of law school as a part-time student, she was a great role model. She recommended study guides, went over sample questions with us, and gave us time management tips for exams. It was much easier to ask questions in a small environment, since I am often shy about participating or asking questions in class.”

Kimberly Braun ’13
Former Teaching Fellow

“First-Year ASP provided me with the tools I needed to succeed in law school. I always looked forward to attending my Weekly Skills Sessions because my Teaching Fellow provided great advice and support. We learned different techniques to prep for classes, take notes, and prepare for exams. The Weekly Skills Sessions helped me find a method that worked for me, form good study habits, and stay focused throughout the year.”

Danielle Koch ’13

“As a First-Year ASP student, the program allowed me to seek guidance and advice from students who had already experienced some of the trials and tribulations I was experiencing my first year. As a Teaching Fellow, it was very rewarding to be able to reassure and advise 1L students on what they could expect and put to rest some of their apprehensions. Many times I saw myself in their eyes and knew exactly what they were thinking and feeling. I found the whole experience to be a win-win for all.”

Alyssa Soto ’12
Former Teaching Fellow
HERE’S WHAT ALUMNI HAVE TO SAY ABOUT FIRST-YEAR ASP

“I would definitely recommend the First-Year Academic Success Program to anyone entering NYLS, no matter how ready for law school you think you are. Law School is a completely unique experience, whichtakes some adjusting, and the Weekly Skills Sessions helped me focus on how to read, write, and analyze in a new way. Personally, I hadn’t been in school for a few years, so the weekly one-on-one attention was key in my ongoing acclimation to being back in school. You get limited feedback from your regular classes, so the Weekly Skills Sessions give you the chance to form an ongoing relationship with someone who can help you adapt to the law school environment. I did well in the first year and I owe a lot of that success to my Teaching Fellow.”

Caleb Vesey ‘13

“My Teaching Fellow was great. Since she thrived in her first year of law school as a part-time student, she was a great role model. She recommended study guides, went over sample questions with us, and gave us time management tips for exams. It was much easier to ask questions in a small environment, since I am often shy about participating or asking questions in class.”

Kimberly Braun ‘13
Former Teaching Fellow

“First-Year ASP provided me with the tools I needed to succeed in law school. I always looked forward to attending my Weekly Skills Sessions because my Teaching Fellow provided great advice and support. We learned different techniques to prep for classes, take notes, and prepare for exams. The Weekly Skills Sessions helped me find a method that worked for me, form good study habits, and stay focused throughout the year.”

Danielle Koch ‘13

“As a First-Year ASP student, the program allowed me to seek guidance and advice from students who had already experienced some of the trials and tribulations I was experiencing my first year. As a Teaching Fellow, it was very rewarding to be able to reassure and advise 1L students on what they could expect and put to rest some of their apprehensions. Many times, I saw myself in their eyes and knew exactly what they were thinking and feeling. I found the whole experience to be a win-win for all.”

Alyssa Soto ‘12
Former Teaching Fellow
Throughout the year, the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising offers several presentations and workshops designed to provide you with guidance as you acquire the skills needed to do well in law school. We encourage you to attend the series of presentations and workshops, which will focus on how to: 1) brief cases, 2) get the most out of class, 3) manage your time, 4) create an outline, 5) prepare for final exams, and 6) put your grades into perspective.

Every Monday morning, the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising publishes a helpful, page-long, advising tip for you to keep in mind throughout the week. Our weekly tips will help you stay on track as you navigate the first year of law school. We hope you look forward to receiving an e-mail version of our weekly tip every Monday morning this year!

The Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising also operates a Lending Library in C532. The library contains a wide assortment of books, including law school advice guides, course review books and supplements, and MPRE and bar exam materials. The materials are available for you to use without the expense of purchasing your own copies. Our Lending Library also includes professor-specific recommendations submitted by past students for you to consider when borrowing a book.

The Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising also offers you the option to meet one-on-one with an academic advisor if you have questions about improving your academic performance. While we can often accommodate walk-ins, we encourage you to make an appointment. To make an appointment, please contact the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising at 212.431.2310.

To ease your transition into law school, you may reserve a seat in our Weekly Skills Sessions. These small-group sessions are led by upper-level students called Teaching Fellows, who are hand-picked by the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising. While the Weekly Skills Sessions review material from your doctrinal courses, each session is designed to help you develop the skills and strategies necessary to succeed here at NYLS and beyond. As such, through creative exercises, the Weekly Skills Sessions emphasize transferrable skills such as:

- Reading cases critically
- Briefing
- Analyzing and synthesizing legal rules
- Outlining
- Issue spotting
- Analyzing legal hypotheticals
- Arguing both sides
- Exam writing

To request a seat in our Weekly Skills Sessions, please e-mail FirstYearASP@nyls.edu. Please note: Space is limited; therefore, seats will be filled on a first-come, first-serve basis. Students who are unable to commit to regular attendance will forfeit their seats.

Who are the Teaching Fellows?
The Teaching Fellows are second- and third-year law students who performed extremely well academically in their first year of law school. Your assigned Teaching Fellow likely had some professors that you currently have.

Many of our past and present Teaching Fellows attended our Weekly Skills Sessions in their first year.

When are the Weekly Skills Sessions held?
The Weekly Skills Sessions take place once a week for approximately one hour. All groups meet during a convenient time when members do not have class.

I’m an evening student; are the Weekly Skills Sessions for me too?
YES! Evening Division students are also encouraged to participate. We have Teaching Fellows who are Evening Division students as well, so your group will most likely meet at 5 p.m. on a weekday or during the weekend.

For more info about First-Year ASP, contact the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising:
Suite C532 • firstyearasp@nyls.edu • 212.431.2310
Throughout the year, the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising offers several presentations and workshops designed to provide you with guidance as you acquire the skills needed to do well in law school. We encourage you to attend the series of presentations and workshops, which will focus on how to: 1) brief cases, 2) get the most out of class, 3) manage your time, 4) create an outline, 5) prepare for final exams, and 6) put your grades into perspective.

Every Monday morning, the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising publishes a helpful, page-long, advising tip for you to keep in mind throughout the week. Our weekly tips will help you stay on track as you navigate the first year of law school. We hope you look forward to receiving an e-mail version of our weekly tip every Monday morning this year!

The Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising also operates a Lending Library in C532. The library contains a wide assortment of books, including law school advice guides, course review books and supplements, and MPRE and bar exam materials. The materials are available for you to use without the expense of purchasing your own copies. Our Lending Library also includes professor-specific recommendations submitted by past students for you to consider when borrowing a book.

The Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising also offers you the option to meet one-on-one with an academic advisor if you have questions about improving your academic performance. While we can often accommodate walk-ins, we encourage you to make an appointment. To make an appointment, please contact the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising at 212.431.2310.

To ease your transition into law school, you may reserve a seat in our Weekly Skills Sessions. These small-group sessions are led by upper-level students called Teaching Fellows, who are hand-picked by the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising. While the Weekly Skills Sessions review material from your doctrinal courses, each session is designed to help you develop the skills and strategies necessary to succeed here at NYLS and beyond. As such, through creative exercises, the Weekly Skills Sessions emphasize transferable skills such as:

- Reading cases critically
- Briefing
- Analyzing and synthesizing legal rules
- Outlining
- Issue spotting
- Arguing both sides
- Exam writing
- Analyzing legal hypotheticals
- Outlining
- Exam writing

To request a seat in our Weekly Skills Sessions, please e-mail FirstYearASP@nyls.edu. Please note: Space is limited; therefore, seats will be filled on a first-come, first-serve basis. Students who are unable to commit to regular attendance will forfeit their seats.

Who are the Teaching Fellows?
The Teaching Fellows are second- and third-year law students who performed extremely well academically in their first year of law school. Your assigned Teaching Fellow likely had some professors that you currently have.

Many of our past and present Teaching Fellows attended our Weekly Skills Sessions in their first year.

When are the Weekly Skills Sessions held?
The Weekly Skills Sessions take place once a week for approximately one hour. All groups meet during a convenient time when members do not have class.

I’m an evening student; are the Weekly Skills Sessions for me too?YES! Evening Division students are also encouraged to participate. We have Teaching Fellows who are Evening Division students as well, so your group will most likely meet at 5 p.m. on a weekday or during the weekend.

NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL is committed to helping all students develop the skills necessary for academic success. The Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising, through its First-Year Academic Success Program (“First-Year ASP”), helps you achieve your full academic potential by introducing you to topics such as critical reading, case briefing, time management, legal analysis, outlining, and exam preparation. The program offers a variety of services for you to choose from, including: 1) Weekly Skills Sessions, 2) presentations and workshops, 3) weekly tips, 4) a Lending Library, and 5) individual academic advising.

Get the skills you need to succeed in law school and beyond. Take advantage of all the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising has to offer.
Throughout the year, the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising offers several presentations and workshops designed to provide you with guidance as you acquire the skills needed to do well in law school. We encourage you to attend the series of presentations and workshops, which will focus on how to: 1) brief cases, 2) get the most out of class, 3) manage your time, 4) create an outline, 5) prepare for final exams, and 6) put your grades into perspective.

Every Monday morning, the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising publishes a helpful, page-long, advising tip for you to keep in mind throughout the week. Our weekly tips will help you stay on track as you navigate the first year of law school. We hope you look forward to receiving an e-mail version of our weekly tip every Monday morning this year!

The Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising also operates a Lending Library in C532. The library contains a wide assortment of books, including law school advice guides, course review books and supplements, and MPRE and bar exam materials. The materials are available for you to use without the expense of purchasing your own copies. Our Lending Library also includes professor-specific recommendations submitted by past students for you to consider when borrowing a book.

The Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising also offers you the option to meet one-on-one with an academic advisor if you have questions about improving your academic performance. While we can often accommodate walk-ins, we encourage you to make an appointment. To make an appointment, please contact the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising at 212.431.2310.

To ease your transition into law school, you may reserve a seat in our Weekly Skills Sessions. These small-group sessions are led by upper-level students called Teaching Fellows, who are hand-picked by the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising. While the Weekly Skills Sessions review material from your doctrinal courses, each session is designed to help you develop the skills and strategies necessary to succeed here at NYLS and beyond. As such, through creative exercises, the Weekly Skills Sessions emphasize transferable skills such as:

› Reading cases critically
› Briefing
› Analyzing and synthesizing legal rules
› Outlining
› Issue spotting
› Analyzing legal hypotheticals
› Arguing both sides
› Exam writing

To request a seat in our Weekly Skills Sessions, please e-mail FirstYearASP@nyls.edu. Please note: Space is limited; therefore, seats will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis. Students who are unable to commit to regular attendance will forfeit their seats.

Who are the Teaching Fellows? The Teaching Fellows are second- and third-year law students who performed extremely well academically in their first year of law school. Your assigned Teaching Fellow likely had some professors that you currently have.

Many of our past and present Teaching Fellows attended our Weekly Skills Sessions in their first year.

When are the Weekly Skills Sessions held? The Weekly Skills Sessions take place once a week for approximately one hour. All groups meet during a convenient time when members do not have class.

I’m an evening student; are the Weekly Skills Sessions for me too? YES! Evening Division students are also encouraged to participate. We have Teaching Fellows who are Evening Division students as well, so your group will most likely meet at 5 p.m. on a weekday or during the weekend.

Get the skills you need to succeed in law school and beyond. Take advantage of all the Office of Academic Planning, Programming, and Advising has to offer.
HERE’S WHAT ALUMNI HAVE TO SAY ABOUT FIRST-YEAR ASP

“I would definitely recommend the First Year Academic Success Program to anyone entering NYLS, no matter how ready for law school you think you are. Law School is a completely unique experience, which takes some adjusting, and the Weekly Skills Sessions helped me focus on how to read, write, and analyze in a new way. Personally, I hadn’t been in school for a few years, so the weekly one-on-one attention was key in my ongoing adjustment to being back in school. You get limited feedback from your regular classes, so the Weekly Skills Sessions give you the chance to form an ongoing relationship with someone who can help you adapt to the law school environment. I did well in the first year and owe a lot of that success to my Teaching Fellow.”

Caleb Vesey ’13

“My Teaching Fellow was great. Since she thrived in her first year of law school as a part-time student, she was a great role model. She recommended study guides, went over sample questions with us, and gave us time management tips for exams. It was much easier to ask questions in a small environment, since I am often shy about participating or asking questions in class.”

Kimberly Braun ’13
Former Teaching Fellow

“First-Year ASP provided me with the tools I needed to succeed in law school. I always looked forward to attending my Weekly Skills Sessions because my Teaching Fellow provided great advice and support. We learned different techniques to prep for classes, take notes, and prepare for exams. The Weekly Skills Sessions helped me find a method that worked for me, form good study habits, and stay focused throughout the year.”

Danielle Koch ’13

“As a First-Year ASP student, the program allowed me to seek guidance and advice from students who had already experienced some of the trials and tribulations I was experiencing my first year. As a Teaching Fellow, it was very rewarding to be able to reassure and advise 1L students on what they could expect and put to rest some of their apprehensions. Many times I saw myself in their eyes and knew exactly what they were thinking and feeling. I found the whole experience to be a win-win for all.”

Alyssa Soto ’12
Former Teaching Fellow