Unbundling
Not included here is a discussion of unbundled legal services, which will be of interest to many lawyers seeking to provide high-quality, targeted legal services to clients with limited resources. For an in-depth discussion of unbundling, see our recent issue, Family Advocate, Fall 2012 (Vol. 35, No. 2):

- What you should know about limited-scope representation
- How it works in a family law practice
- Drafting the retainer agreement
- Ethical duties to client and the court
- Take the quiz: Is unbundling right for you?

And, remember, as a member of the ABA Section of Family Law, back issues of Family Advocate are available to you online at no charge at www.ambar.org/familyadvocate.

Why Solos Must Be Lifelong Students
By Denis P. Fleming

GPSolo (ISSN-1520-331X) is published six times a year (January/February, March/April, May/June, July/August, September/October, and November/December) by the ABA Solo, Small Firm and General Practice Division, 321 N. Clark St., Chicago, IL 60654-7598. The magazine is committed to fulfilling the special needs of solo, small firm, and general practitioners. The contents of GPSolo do not necessarily represent the views of the Solo, Small Firm and General Practice Division or the American Bar Association but are the views of respected members of the profession. Any member of the Association becomes a member of the Solo, Small Firm and General Practice Division by sending an application and annual dues of $45 ($10 of which funds GPSolo) to the Division of Professional Services, ABA, 321 N. Clark St., Chicago, IL 60654-7598. ABA membership is a prerequisite to Division membership. Institutions and individuals not eligible for ABA membership may subscribe to GPSolo for $115 per year. $145 for residents outside the United States and its possessions. Per copy price for members and nonmembers is $20. Requests for subscriptions and back issues should be sent to ABA Service Center, service@americanbar.org or 321 N. Clark St., Chicago, IL 60654-7598.
