ESSAYS
What's Not Being Shared in Shared Decision-Making?
by Meredith Stark and Joseph J. Fins
Better patient care is still the primary goal. (Isn't it?)

Incidental Findings in the Era of Whole Genome Sequencing?
by Erik Parens, Paul Appelbaum, and Wendy Chung
What matters are research results, not researchers' intentions.

Avoiding a “Death Panel” Redux
by Nicole M. Piemonte and Laura Hermer
The “Advance Care Planning Consultation” would have fostered discussions about end-of-life care but also imposed a structure on them, and in the context of the cost-containment goals of the larger health care reform effort, that structure helped doom it.

OTHER VOICES
Cueing “The Coversation”
by Nancy Berlinger

The “Good Planning Panel”
by Thomas J. Smith and Joann Bodurtha

A Defense of Genetic Discrimination
by Noah Levin

There can be such a thing as justified genetic discrimination, and the Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act fails to allow for it. GINA’s limits on employment discrimination could be harmful both to the people it is meant to protect and to others.
