

WE ARE NEW YORK'S LAW SCHOOL*Full-Time Faculty Position*Professor of Law from Practice: Legal Practice Program

New York Law School (NYLS) invites applications for a full-time position in our Professor of Law from Practice program. The selected candidate will teach our Legal Practice course—a foundational seven-credit, two-semester course that all students take in their first year. Through client-centered simulations and assignments (using New York-based actors in the roles of clients and witnesses), the course introduces students to fundamental lawyering skills in context, including critical reading, legal analysis, predictive and persuasive writing, legal research, client interviewing, counseling, negotiation, and oral advocacy.

The position commences on July 1, 2024, and ends on June 30, 2025, with a possibility of renewal. The full-time position includes teaching two sections of Legal Practice (a total of approximately 40 students between both sections) in both the fall and spring semesters. Professors of Law from Practice work collaboratively to design classes and prepare simulations, writing assignments, and other course materials.

NYLS is deeply committed to fostering an inclusive community. We warmly welcome applications from any and all candidates whose background, lived experiences, and viewpoints will contribute to an exceptional learning environment. To view NYLS's Strategic Plan, visit www.nyls.edu/strategy, and for information on the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion, see www.nyls.edu/diversity.

Requirements

Applicants must have a J.D. degree, bar admission, at least two years of practice experience, and a demonstrated affinity for and commitment to teaching. Teaching and supervisory experience is preferred.

Compensation

We offer a highly competitive compensation and benefits package. The full-time faculty position offers an annual salary of $120,000.00.

How to Apply

Candidates are strongly encouraged to apply before May 30, 2024. Applications may be considered on a rolling basis.

About New York Law School

Founded in 1891, New York Law School (NYLS) is an independent law school located in Tribeca, the heart of New York City's legal, government, financial, and emerging tech centers. Known as “New York's law school,” NYLS embraces the city as its classroom by complementing a rigorous legal education with an innovative and diverse set of “uniquely New York” experiential learning opportunities. Since opening its doors, NYLS has produced graduates who have gone on to hold high elected and appointed office in the city, lead large and small firms, and gain broad recognition as captains of business and industry. Its renowned faculty of prolific scholars has built the School's strength in key areas of the law, including business and financial services, intellectual property and privacy, and government and public interest law. NYLS has more than 18,000 graduates and currently enrolls around 1,100 students in its full-time and part-time J.D. programs. The School also offers an advanced-degree program in Tax Law.
